ALL STATE EXPRESS SYNCHRONOUS FLOW

"...imagine the glass pipeline, from raw material supplies to finished goods, in which inventories and product flow are visible at any time and any place in the value chain. Parts and products can be stopped, slowed, redirected, or speeded en route, depending on actual market conditions and consumer preferences. Inventory levels are known with great accuracy and can be managed at any point in the supply chain. The speed of movement is optimized for parts and products - nothing goes too quickly or too slowly; rather, everything moves in response to actual consumption." * See ref.
